

WHSG Atlanta Report for December 2015

Dotti Casoria, Station Manager

Our community had a Christmas party and everyone was to bring non-perishable items to give to the needy. It was the largest gathering that we have had and even some who did not attend the party brought food. TBN donated a case of peanut butter and six canned hams. Every time we have a get-together, I always have the opportunity to tell people about TBN and Holy Land Experience.

We bought gift cards to give to ten needy families this year. Rather than purchase the food and have them come and pick up, we gave grocery store gift cards so families could choose their own Christmas dinner this year.

A local radio station host made an appeal to the public for gifts for foster home children. He went to about 12 different Walmart Stores and had the name of the children printed on slips and the gift that each child would like to have for Christmas attached to Christmas trees. I went to a Walmart in the studio community and bought games and listed TBN as the donor. I heard on the news that all children's gifts (approximately 2,000) had been bought and were delivered to the homes before Christmas Day.

A former WHSG prayer partner cleaned out her closet and went around to neighbors to get additional items and brought two car loads of good used clothing to the station to be distributed to needy individuals. We spread the word and made many ladies happy to have something new to wear for Christmas.

We also purchased Subway sandwich gift cards to give to our homeless people who live at the nearby bridge. We also purchased bags of fruit and bottled water for them.

Production

We taped our two International Praise the Lord programs with host Mark Rutland and Apostle Guillermo Maldonado. We also taped a TBN Salsa program with Host Guillermo Maldonado, and several half-hour teachings for TBN Salsa with Dr. Mark Rutland on the subject of the Lord's Prayer. Dr. Rutland has a book coming out on this subject because he feels like it saved his life during a difficult time.

Joy in Our Town

Special guests for Joy in Our Town last month included:

- Firefighter R.J. Lots from the Monroe Fire Department (WHSB's city of license).
- Joy Bates and Ann Mathis from Family Bridge, which provides safe places for families separated by court order.
- Lynda Napier from Sarah Ella's House, a transitional housing for homeless women.
- Richard Oden, Chairman of Rockdale County.

Mayor Mario Avery of Fairburn. Through this interview we were allowed to go into the town and talk with the residents. The city is really developing because of its location along Highway 85 near Atlanta's Hartsfield-Jackson Airport, the largest airport in the world. We prayed for jobs and more jobs for their community as new industry settles in that region.

One of our Joy in Our Town hosts, Julie Haston, attends Bethel Atlanta School of Supernatural Ministry. Twice a month they go to different areas to minister. On November 21st they sent a team to support the Fairburn city administration on reaching low-income areas. They have been assigned an apartment community to help in tangible way; such as giving birthday gifts for children, taking trash out for disabled, etc. They are to be a positive influence in the neighborhood and attended the Fall Festival last month. They are allowed to pray for the residents and have seen some outstanding healings and several salvations.

Julie is also involved with the Hope Clinic at the local Assemblies of God church that is open every Tuesday and offers many different services to the needy and homeless people in this community. We are grateful for churches that have a heart for helping to heal our areas.

Happy New Year – 2016

Praying that God gives you a year of favor, full of His unending love! May He give you the desire of your heart and make all your plans succeed! (Ps. 20:4)
